Why Scouts do fundraising:

Often families wonder why Scouts participate in fundraisers. The answer is there are intrinsic values in fundraising. Scouts learn skills they may not otherwise develop. For example, scouts learn:

- Confidence - to deliver a message without fear
- Communication - to speak clearly and confidently
- Goal setting - to be able to set goals and obtain results
- Planning - to put a plan in place with measurable objectives
- Follow-up - to understand the need to continue to press forward
- Leadership - to be a leader at all times
- Hard Work - to know that success is contingent on the amount of effort we apply
